SMALL BUSINESS FORUM

TECHNOLOGY DEMONSTRATIONS & OPPORTUNITIES

Who: The Department of Energy, Office of Environmental Management, Office of Small and Disadvantaged Business Utilization, Savannah River Site and Savannah River National Laboratory are hosting the forum.

What:

- Private industry and academia interested in using Savannah River National Laboratory testbeds to demonstrate their technologies.
- Technologists, innovators and technical entrepreneurs with ideas to help DOE address priority environmental remediation concerns such as technetium-99, cesium-137, strontium-90 and mercury.
- Advanced robotic and remote sensing techniques aimed at increasing operation efficiency, reducing personnel exposure and enhancing safety.
- Small businesses interested in doing business with DOE and its contractors.

When: May 19 — Savannah River Site technology needs with one-on-one discussions and small business requirements. May 20 — Savannah River Site tour.

Where: University of South Carolina Convocation Center, 375 Robert M Bell Parkway, Aiken, South Carolina 29801

Why: DOE-EM recognizes fresh concepts, novel technologies, and alternative solutions can enhance worker and facility safety, improve operational performance, accelerate schedules and reduce costs for environmental cleanup. Small businesses, by its nature, are innovators and can play a big role.

For more information email techforum@srs.gov

* Selection of technologies and alignment with testbeds depends on DOE-EM needs, technology maturity and applicability, the site's ability to host technology vendors and availability of supporting infrastructure.
